From Controller General's Desk

The year 2015-16 witnessed several key reforms in the mineral sector. The IBM under the guidance of the Mines Ministry is involved in rolling out new initiatives by way of penetrating of new technologies for administering mines and minerals in the country. We have embarked on an ambitious plan to set up Remote Sensing Laboratory in the Bureau for the monitoring of mining activities using time series high resolution satellite imagery as part of an MoU signed between National Remote Sensing Centre (NRSC) of ISRO on Jan 21, 2016 at Hyderabad. In keeping pace with the smart governance, IBM will develop an e-book and a mobile app for filing of online returns under Rule 45 of MCDR 1988. A system of rating of mines based on the SDF parameters will be established. The completion of Mining Tenement System will provide a boost to use of IT and new technologies in the mines sector. We shall soon have presence at Raipur and Gandhinagar which will bring about more efficient delivery of our services to the mines sector in the states of Chhattisgarh & Gujarat respectively. An Interdepartmental Regional Committee at Regional office level and an Apex Committee at the Headquarter level are constituted to fast-track the evaluation of mineral blocks to be taken up for exploration.

Our office made immense stride in developing mechanism for monitoring important issues of which the Apex Committee for mineral concession references is a key among many others. The efforts taken to carry forward the reforms process has begun to show positive results in terms of mineral production. The index of mineral production of mining and quarrying sector for the month of March (2004-05=100) 2016 at 148.8 was 0.1% lower as compared to March 2015. The cumulative growth for the period April 2015-March 2016 as against corresponding period previous year stands at (+) 2.2 %. The production of important minerals that showed positive growth during March 2016 over March 2015 include: Iron Ore (40.2%), Magnesite (32.9%), Copper Conc. (28.6%) Lead Conc. (20.2%), Gold (19.5%), Chromite (13.5%), Bauxite (11.9%), Diamond (11.6%) and Limestone (10.1%). The allowing of FDI up to 100% in exploration, mining, minerals processing and metallurgy under the automatic route for all non-fuel and non-atomic minerals including diamonds and precious stones and the amendment brought to MMDR Act, 1957 will further the growth story in coming days. I believe when the Bureau celebrates 70th Foundation Day next year, the mining industry will be poised for a robust growth owing to another round of slew of reforms in the pipeline.

Additional Secretary (Mines) visits Goa

With an objective to find a way out for the dumping of mine wastes, Shri R. Sridharan, Additional Secretary (Mines) visited Goa on 8 Jan, 2016 and held wide ranging discussions with the stakeholders. The waste handling became a vexed issue following the Supreme Court judgement of 21st April 2014 on W.P. (Civil) 435 of 2012 and the MMDR Act and Rules thereunder which bans the dumping of the mineral waste outside the mining lease area.

During his visit, Shri Sridharan visited the Advalpal Iron Ore Mines of M/s Lithoferro and Bicholim Iron Ore Mines of M/s Vedanta Ltd to get a sense of the enormity of the problem. He examined the field problems of dumping of overburden and mine owners' challenges.

The Additional Secretary called on Chief Minister of Goa, Shri Laxmikant Parsekar and held interactions with Shri R.K. Srivastava, Chief Secretary, Goa and Shri Amjad Tak, Secretary (Mines), Goa, Shri Prasanna Acharya, Director of Department of Mines & Geology of Goa. Dr. Y.G. Kale, RCOM, Goa and other officials accompanied the Secretary to the mines. A delegation from Goa Minerals Ore Exporters' Association (GMOEA) also called on Shri Sridharan and discussed the various issues facing the Goan Mining industry.

The Mining leases in Goa (erstwhile Mining Concessions) were granted by the erstwhile Portuguese Government before December 1961, when Goa annexed to Indian Republic. These leases were small in area and fragmented, and leased to different lease holders contiguous to each other.

The maximum area of lease granted was of 100 ha. As most of the working leases were fully mineralised it left little scope for dump wastes or over burden within leased area. Therefore, as per the traditional practice, the waste materials were dumped outside the mining lease area after due permission from the State Government. The visit of the Secretary intended to explore possible amendments to MMDR Act, 1957.

Policy Direction

Sustainable Development framework for mining sector soon

In accordance with the policy direction in the National Mineral Policy, 2008, the Ministry of Mines has entrusted M/s ERM India Pvt. Ltd to develop a Sustainable Development Framework for the mining sector (Non-coal, Non Fuel) in India.

The SDF was rolled out for the first time in Sukinda Chromite mines of M/s Tisco in Odisha on 7 Jan 2016 and at Donimalai Mines of the NMDC at Bengaluru in the presence of Secretary (Mines) Shri Balvinder Kumar and then Controller General In-charge Shri R.K.

Sinha. An institutional system, the proposed SDF would be fully integrated through an arrangement of representative cells, though functioning at different levels.

The framework would bring out specific functions linked to different levels like National level, State level at the Mining Regional level and the Lease level.

If the Ministry of Mines and the DMGs will function at National and State level respectively, strategic decision for mining, environment, social safeguards and infrastructure development would be taken up at Mining Regional level.

At the lease level, each mine would have an organisational structure in place to manage sustainable development performance.

The IBM is in the process of developing Online System of Star Rating for the mines based on SDF parameters.

In this process, the miners on their own would fill up the details with the help of mobile app to be launched for rating purpose.

activities, the project can also be used by the State Governments for various purposes such as detection and monitoring of illegal mining, material movement and revenue collection from minerals etc. It can also be used as an efficient tool for sustainable mining and keep an eye on reclamation and rehabilitation, social footprints, water bodies and agriculture, tribal tracts, sanctuaries and bio diversity zone and mining clusters.

According to the MoU, NRSC shall impart training to the IBM officials in processing and interpretation of satellite data. It would also provide technical guidance in creating a remote sensing cell at remote sensing unit at IBM, Nagpur and Hyderabad.

Bhuvan based services shall be used for monitoring of mining activities and development of mobile app for field data collection to verify the ground realities with respect to the approved proposals. NRSC shall also carry out a pilot project to demonstrate the feasibility of using High Resolution Satellite Imagery in monitoring mining activities over a period of time, over select group of mines identified by IBM.

This includes checking and validation of the consistency of Differential Geo Positioning System (DGPS) points collected as a part of lease boundary survey programme of those mines. As a R & D effort, volume changes in the select group of mines using satellite derived DSM will also be attempted. The Limestone mining in Tandur region of Telangana State and Bellary-Hospet region for iron ore in Karnataka have been identified for this purpose.

Technical Updates

Bench Scale Beneficiation Study on Rejects of Manganese Ore

The black dump rejects from Ukwa mine of M/s MOIL was received at Modern Mineral Processing Laboratory and Pilot Plant, IBM, Nagpur for conducting bench scale beneficiation studies. The objective of the investigation was to develop a process flow sheet to produce manganese concentrate suitable for end-user industry.

The as received sample assayed 8.02% Mn, 2.61 % Fe (T), 75.41 % SiO₂, 2.63% Al₂O₃, 0.68 % CaO, 0.23% MgO, 0.61% BaO, 1.03% Na₂O, 0.53% K₂O, 0.13% P, 0.02% TiO₂, 0.04% SrO, 0.2% S(T) and 1.26% LOI.

Gravity concentration by employing tabling at -65 mesh size followed by wet high intensity magnetic separation at 12000 Kilo Gauss of table tails yielded a composite manganese concentrate with a reasonably good grade and recovery. The composite concentrate obtained by combining the table concentrate and magnetic fraction of table tails assayed 30.08% Mn, 7.76% Fe (T), 29.42% SiO₂, 2.62% Al₂O₃, 0.21 % P, and 3.1% LOI with a Mn recovery of 72.2% (Wt% yield: 18.4).

The Mn to Fe ratio is 3.87.

The sample is amenable for beneficiation by gravity cum wet magnetic separation. The fine concentrate obtained may find utilisation in Steel Industry after agglomeration.

Recovery of Silica Sand from Katangjhri Manganese Ore mine

The Mineral Processing Division of IBM has developed a process on the overburden of Katangjhri Manganese Ore mine to recover silica sand as a value added product to be used as stoving material in the Katangjhri Manganese ore mine, Balaghat, Madhya Pradesh. Thus, the process developed by M.P. Division of IBM has an achievement to convert the overburden into value added product.

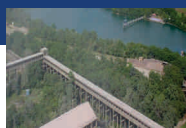

Blast induced vibration study of Kovaya Limestone Mines

The Mining Research Cell of the TMP Division of Indian Bureau of Mines carried out a study of ground vibrations due to blasting at their Kovaya Limestone Mine, Rajula Tehsil, Amreli District in Gujarat. On a request from M/s Ultratech Cements Ltd, Gujarat Cement Works, the IBM carried out the study over a lease area of 959.325 ha near Kovaya village, to study the impact of blast induced ground vibrations on the nearby structures, human settlements and to suggest control measures to minimise the adverse impact. Under the study, a total nine experimental blasts at different benches were conducted with varying charge pattern and total 26 blast events were recorded and monitored at three different locations simultaneously for each blast.

Based on the monitoring, a data and regression analysis report has been prepared and submitted to the party. During the study, the maximum peak particle velocity observed as 19.81 mm/sec at a distance of only 93 m from blast site with maximum charge per delay of 48 kg and total explosive charge of

The maximum peak particle velocity observed as 19.81 mm/sec at a distance of only 93 m from blast site with maximum charge per delay of 48 kg and total explosive charge of 2304 kg, which is far below the safe limit 2304 kg, which is far below the safe limit. The frequencies observed are in the DGMS prescribed range of 3 Hz to 100 Hz. The dominant frequency of ground vibration resulting from the blasting are < 8 Hz is 8 %, 8 to 25 Hz is 74 % and > 25 Hz is 18%. As the frequencies observed below 8 Hz are only 8 %, it poses no threat or danger to the nearby structures. The peak air over pressure (sound level) due to blasting varies from 100 to 136.7 dB (L). The recorded data is well within the safe limit as far as the structures are concerned. For minimising vibrations effects and fly rocks, control measures have been suggested in the report.

IBM initiative

Min Government, Max Governance

In pursuance of the Government's policy of Minimum Government, Maximum Governance, the Indian Bureau of Mines (IBM) has begun on reforms and rationalisation in the administration of mines and mineral resources. Consequent to promulgation of Mines & Minerals (Development & Regulation) Amendment Act 2015 and in pursuance of the action plan decided in the meeting held under the chairmanship of Additional Secretary (Mines) on 14 January 2015 at New Delhi, various committees were constituted in IBM to prepare modalities/procedures, guidelines and rewriting various provisions of MCR, 1960 and MCDR, 1988 in line with the Amendment. The reports prepared by the Committees have been forwarded to the Ministry as per the time frame stipulated by the Ministry.

An initiative has also been taken to seeking self certified appraisals from mining lease holders regarding annual report of the work carried out by them vis-à-vis as approved in the mining plans. Significant and good practices of mining by the mining companies are also uploaded on the IBM website in Photo Gallery so that public at large can access the work of mining companies.

Also, a scheme on 'Mining Tenement System' with the objective to develop an online National Mineral Information System for investors by linking the Central and State organisations engaged in administration of mineral resources in the country is also under implementation.

हिन्दी ना सिर्फ हमारी मातृभाषा है बल्कि यह भारत की राजभाषा भी है. संविधान ने 14 सितंबर, 1949 को हिन्दी को भारत की राजभाषा घोषित किया था. भारतीय संविधान के भाग 17 के अध्याय की धारा 343 (1) में यह वर्णित है कि "संघ की राजभाषा हिन्दी और लिपि देवनागरी होगी". जिसके तहत सभी सरकारी कार्यालयों में हिन्दी का अधिक से अधिक उपयोग किया जाना चाहिए. सरकारी इकाइयों में हिन्दी के प्रयोग को बढ़ावा देने तथा कर्मचारियों का प्रोत्साहन बढ़ाने हेतु हर वर्ष सितंबर माह में हिन्दी पखवाड़े का आयोजन किया जाता है. भारतीय खान ब्यूरो मुख्यालय, क्षेत्रीय कार्यालय तथा उप-क्षेत्रीय कार्यालय में भी हिन्दी पखवाड़ा हर्षोल्लास के साथ मनाया गया.
