Our above experience gives ample proof that the three pillars of Sustainable Development, Economic Viability, Environmental Responsibility and Social Accountability – are vital for the existence and growth of any mineral business. This is the key to success, when one is operating an industry in an environmentally sensitive area. All the activities laid down in the Environment Management System have contributed significantly in building faith and mutual trust between the society and the company.

HINDALCO is committed to leave the mine site in a state better than the pre-mining era.
